Every year, UP ITTC brings together students, faculty, IT practitioners and enthusiasts, government officials, national leaders, and prominent IT personalities from many parts of the country to discuss and share knowledge about recent trends in information technology.

Reputed as “the biggest IT event of the year,” Y4iT provides a venue for experiencing activities and witnessing talks that cover IT and IT-related topics, thus developing awareness and honing global competitiveness among IT practitioners and enthusiasts.

Y4iT’s precursor, the 2003 National IT Student Congress held on September 2 and 3 at the University Theater in Diliman, Quezon City, attracted more than 5,000 participants from all over the nation. Attendance has been steadily increasing, benefiting from an increasing number of lectures. In 2008, the four-day confab held at the UP Diliman campus became the most successful, with all 70 invited speakers present in the event.
